To rob your own citizens of their rights goes against the principals that America was founded on. If our founding fathers were alive today, they would scoff at your bowing to religious organizations and moral law over the freedoms of our people. We did not fight for revolution, for freedom and democracy, just to have it ripped from us because of a single executive order. I thought we fought against authoritarian regimes between the revolutionary war and the Cold war and I have prided myself for being from a family who fought for this country. Robbing others of their right to self express and to speak is to rob them of their legal rights, a trend which I find disturbing and disheartening. Please, do not rob people of their right for self expression. Taking gender expression from passports may not seem to be fundamental to your freedoms but by giving it up you limit your own expression and freedoms. You willingly are giving your own freedoms for no gained security, for no other benefit other than the harm of your fellow citizens.
