I strongly oppose the proposed changes to passport issuance and renewal rules that discriminate against nonbinary and transgender individuals. These changes would not only undermine the rights of nonbinary and trans people, but also violate the principles of equality and dignity that our society strives to uphold. Access to accurate, non-discriminatory identification is a fundamental right for all individuals, regardless of gender identity. I urge the Department of State to protect the rights of nonbinary and trans people by ensuring that passports reflect the true gender identity of every individual, and by implementing policies that promote inclusivity and respect for all people.
