

Author Full Name : Kayla CurrivanReceived Date : 02/20/2025 07:00 PMComments Received :

Please reconsider the current administration's anti-science stance on gender markers. It is political posturing only intended to harm a marginalized community. The science behind sex and gender is clear that there are more sexes than just male and female, and many more combinations than xx and xy. These changes not only make travel dangerous for transgender Americans, but leave out intersex Americans. It is an irresponsible restriction on American freedom and only serves to discriminate against queer and intersex Americans.