No one should have the right to tell someone who lives a life they do not live or understand how to live it. Freedom is allowing others to live their lives and also find their own way. Fear is guiding these anti trans policies and it also disempowers everyone who has this fear and also the ones who are being taught to fear trans people. What it's telling people is that who they are is easily influenced by 1 percent of the population and that is so dangerous. today it is trans tomorrow it will be something else.
