It is ridiculous to change the term "gender" for "sex" and then to offer only 2 categories (male/female) as there are any number of intersex individuals who are citizens. The premise that ALL people are born with either XX or XY chromosomes is a biological fallacy; this change ignores factual physiology. If you want, for some inexplicable reason, to require people to identify themselves as "sex at birth" you are going to need to add in either a general category ("other") or list quite a few more options.
