Citizens of the United States deserve to have processes and policies that reflect them accurately.

Gender and sex are not the same thing and denying their difference is a backward precedent for the United States.

The definitions recently set forth in an Executive Order which will affect these forms is not scientifically correct and creates a reality where all applicants should honestly not select a sex at all. The definition is so erroneous that no one would be considered a male or female underneath the guidelines.

Official forms for United States citizens should be as accurate as possible and biologically there is more than M and F. As stated above Gender is not the same as sex and it should be on forms to accommodate all of our citizens.
