This is unconstitutional in every way. How do you expect to enforce this? This isn't some cut and dry thing. There's intersex people. What are they supposed to do? If a woman with PCOS goes you get a passport, but you think she's trans, that will affect all people. Not just trans people. Trans people deserve respect and dignity. None if this affects anyone. No one needs to know if someone was born one way or another. If someone "used to be a kid" you're not always a kid. When someone gets married, they change their last name. Who is this any different when it doesn't affect anyone negatively. AT ALL.
