

Author Full Name : Alyssa ToombsReceived Date : 02/21/2025 10:20 AMComments Received :

The government has no place to inspect my genitals or anyone else's. Biological sex, like many biological factors, is not actually a binary, but has a spectrum, and any designation of sex at birth would be discriminatory to intersex individuals. My sex at birth has no bearing on my rights as a citizen or my ability to travel through this country. Additionally, adding more barriers just adds more burden to the administration system, and is a blatant example of government overreach.