I am concerned with the proposed changes to passport applications under review. Myself, as well as many of my friends, would be personally impacted by these changes. It would make it more difficult to travel, potentially exposing us to abuse from foreign officials if our gender identifiers are mismatched between our passports and our actual bodies.

It is the agency's duty to document and verify my citizenship, and produce identity documents that are valid to travel with. You have a constitutional and legal duty to do this in a way that supports all citizens, not harms them. If you fail to do this, you are violating your legal and constitutional duties to the public.
