

Author Full Name : Jessica Woollcombe

Received Date : 02/21/2025 11:21 AM

Comments Received :

If a court of law has determined that a person has undergone the necessary process to transfer gender to another, the State Department has no right to deny them their passport. A court of law court order should never be disregarded because people are uncomfortable with the new reality in the world.