There have already been reports of people having their documents seized when they are applying for or renewing passports. People are not having their old passports, drivers licenses, birth certificates, etc, returned. This is a grave injustice. The US government should not be able to seize documents over this.

You allow legal name changes for marriage and "just because" for straight, cis people - why can the same not be extended to trans people? As I woman, this does absolutely nothing to "protect" me and I resent being used as an excuse to pass bigoted, harmful laws.
