

Author Full Name : AnonymousReceived Date : 02/21/2025 12:13 PMComments Received :

There is no reason to discriminate against someone who is updating their info. People change their names and data for any number of reasons, including marriage, personal choice, and NONE of these affect anyone but the person applying for the document. It is a waste of effort and energy to discriminate simply based on political scapegoating when the same effort could very easily go towards making this department more efficient with more trained people to process these data changes. Do not limit people's ability to get their documents the official way simply because a few cowards in Congress and the White House are bigots.