Requiring the gender marker to match one's biological sex is a privacy and safety issue for trans, nonbinary, and intersex people. If there is a perceived mismatch between one's gender on the identification and how one presents, anyone who doesn't look sufficiently like their gender is open to harassment. We've seen this already with TSA patdowns of trans and nonbinary individuals - the friends I know who have gone through this have felt violated and humiliated each time. This requirement does nothing but allow anyone who needs to check an ID to abuse people who confuse them. Do not implement this change.
