

Author Full Name : AnonymousReceived Date : 02/21/2025 01:43 PMComments Received :

Government-issued identification should accurately reflect one's identity, even if that identity has changed. Requiring the gender marker to reflect one's "biological sex" opens trans, nonbinary, and intersex individuals to harassment and is an invasion of their privacy. Every time the trans people I know successfully update their documents to reflect who they are, their relief is immediate and apparent. This is because they no longer have a document that tells them who they are is wrong. Do not implement these changes.