I'm extremely concerned about the number of citizens who will be negatively affected by cessation of updating name and gender changes on passports. As the sibling of a transgender individual, I've seen firsthand the transformation and the obstacles that they've had to face to simply be accepted as who they are. This is another unnecessary and frankly, dangerous barrier that they now have to face. Trans people will not simply cease to exist because the government says so. They have always existed, they always will. Trying to force them back into hiding is inhumane and deplorable.
