

Author Full Name : Anonymous

Received Date : 02/21/2025 11:18 PM

Comments Received :

Why are we worried about what someone's birth certificate says? People's names change, they get married, or divorced, or they find out they don't like the "special unique" name their parents picked out for them as much as their parents had hoped. Those are relatively un controversial, so why should updating other information on a Passport be treated as anymore static? Are we going to start putting people's birth weights on there too?