Making changes to this process to enforce sex assigned at birth as the only option available for people is nonsensical. This is going to cause harm and confusion needlessly. Transgender people, non-binary people, and intersex people all deserve the same freedom to have documentation that matches who they are. Imagine issuing a passport with an F marker to a trans man who has a beard and a low masculine voice. You'd putting that person in danger by not allowing documentation that matches who they are in the present as opposed to who they were assigned to be at birth. Let's not move backwards. Let's not try to solve a problem that doesn't exist by causing harm.
