The newly proposed regulations for passports conflict with legitimate legal documents for countless Americans. What is the purpose of requiring passports to list a sex that is in conflict with legally issued and recognized birth certificates, driver's licenses, and social security files? Why spend countless hours of government manpower overriding legal documents? Just to make travel more excruciating for a minority group? To make TSA agents and immigration officers suspicious of citizens who are not breaking the law? To prevent minority groups from being able to work and travel abroad with any kind of safety and dignity? Respectfully, this is a waste of government money and government employees' time. It does nothing to combat real problems facing Americans right now, like the rising cost of groceries. And, again, it pointlessly conflicts with legitimate legal documents for thousands of Americans.
