I believe and support that all people, which includes trans people, should have passports that reflect their legal name and current gender marker. I believe and support that people should be allowed to update / change their name and gender marker and that the State Department should not strip someone of their already updated name and gender marker. I further believe that it is the choice of the individual and not the government to determine what their name and gender marker is, that it is a personal, private, and individual right and choice and not a public or political one. The government's role here is, quite simply, to provide the access and the means.
