It is important that the state recognize that there are individuals who have gone to great lengths to express themselves with a gender that does not match their outward sex organs. Gender is a uniquely different thing. We must, as a society, recognize that people who feel their gender and their assigned sex at birth might be different. People who are trans and non-binary should be treated as THEY believe they are. Their passports and other official documents should reflect how they live and exist in the world. NOT by what may or may no longer, be in their pants.
