

Author Full Name : J S

Received Date : 02/23/2025 11:31 AM

Comments Received :

Removing the ability to change a person's gender/sex recognition marker on their passport does nothing but put transgender people (citizens of the United States of America), as well as anyone else that may not fit exactly within the cultural gender binary, at risk of harm abroad. The Department of State should be ashamed if this ends up going through. Actively putting citizens as risk of harm goes against the purpose of the Department, and instills fear into anyone who wishes to travel.