This executive order is an unjust and discriminatory attack on transgender individuals, restricting their fundamental right to have accurate identification. A passport is not just a travel document—it is an essential form of identification that impacts employment, safety, and dignity. There is no legitimate justification for denying trans people the ability to update their gender marker, and doing so serves no purpose other than to make life harder for an already marginalized community. This policy is cruel, unnecessary, and directly contradicts the values of freedom and equality that this country claims to uphold. I strongly urge the administration to reverse this harmful decision immediately.
