People should be allowed to self-select their gender when renewing passports and the genders should include more than "male/female". People will express their gender of choice, whether the executive branch wants them to or not, and forcing them to put their birth sex on the passport will make it harder for the TSA and other officials to verify their identity. It can also lead to uncomfortable or unsafe situations for the passport holder and identify verifier if only "male/female birth sex" is used. It is important that we allow people the freedom to correctly identify their identity on documents such as passports and licenses.
