This change decreases the security purpose of passports. Someone who presents as a male gender or masculine person with an F on their passport may likely come under needless scrutiny, and waste the resources of the border patrol agents who inspect passports at our border crossings. If someone wanted to forge a passport document, they would match their gender/sex on the document to whatever they present as. Law-abiding citizens who are forced to have a sex marker on their passport that does not match the gender they present as to border agents will only serve as a distraction to the security of our borders.
