

Author Full Name : AJ AndersonReceived Date : 02/25/2025 08:37 AMComments Received :

By refusing to allow transgender and intersex people to choose the sex that most closely aligns with their identity, the administration is creating a federal rule that violates the Constitution because it is purely intended to harm these individuals and not in furtherance of any rational government interest. This rule does not further public safety or any other legitimate government interest. It is motivated by animus towards transgender people and will not survive Supreme Court review. Rather than mire the Department of State in expensive litigation, please do not approve this rule.