Hello.

As someone who lives with a trans person, this legislation is harmful to the health and well being of many individuals. The affirmation of gender markers that include trans and non-binary individuals is well documented to have positive health effects and reduce the risk of suicide (article attached). Changing this legislation not only increases the risk of putting citizens in harms way, it is also a waste of tax payer money as many states have already implemented the REAL ID requirements. This legislation serves no practical purpose and is an inefficient use of government workers' time.
