As a young cis woman, I have never once been threatened by any trans person ever. They are some of the most kind genuine people I have ever met. Changing their bodies to represent the gender they are most comfortable with only affects them and their happiness. Would you react the same way if someone needed glasses Or dyed their hair or got braces? No. Gender is a social construct and is as fluid and diverse as the amount of people on earth. This bills only purpose is blatantly discriminating against one of our most marginalized communities and shouldn't have ever even been considered.
