I am a transgender person, and it is scary, possibly dangerous, and emotionally harmful to have a passport with a gender marker on it that does not match my appearance as I travel internationally. Furthermore, the definition of sex assigned at birth/birth certificate sex and limiting that to male or female ignores the scientific reality of intersex people and differences of sex development. The reality is, even ignoring the existence of transgender people, many people biologically cannot be classified into male or female! This misrepresents the reality of people's lives.
