I am writing to emphasize the importance of maintaining an inclusive, fair, and accessible process for all individuals applying for a U.S. passport, particularly transgender, intersex and nonbinary people. Accurate identification is essential for travel, employment, and daily life, and no one should face unnecessary barriers when obtaining a passport that reflects their identity.

I encourage the Department of State to:

- Preserve the ability to self-select gender markers without requiring medical or legal documentation, ensuring that all applicants have equal access to affirming identification.
- Maintain the "X" gender marker option for nonbinary individuals, recognizing and respecting the identities of all U.S. citizens.
- Ensure efficiency and accessibility in the application process so that name and gender marker changes do not create undue burdens, particularly for transgender applicants who often face systemic challenges in updating their documents.

These measures uphold the dignity and rights of all individuals while aligning with best practices for identity documents. I urge the Department of State to continue supporting policies that promote equity, privacy, and ease of access in the passport application process.

Thank you for your time and commitment to ensuring fair and inclusive policies.
