These new regulations are against everything that we should value as Americans. We should be open and excepting and welcoming to diverse communities and respectful of their needs and existence. We have enough research and data to acknowledge the trans communities vulnerabilities and we know that these types of actions can negatively impact their well-being and critically harm them. This type of regulation reinforces the bigotry and hatred and vitriol for one of the smallest and most marginalized communities in our country and around the world. We need to protect them.
