Again I believe that this will disproportionately target people who do not identify with their assigned sex at birth. Transgender people are already having to deal with passport changes. Hunter Schafer who is a notable transgender celebrity has had her passport marker changed to male when she does not look anything like what a societal definition of male would look like. Intersex people are also not represented at all. Intersex people are not biologically male or female at birth. How would they be able to accurately fill out a passport form to renew their passport?
