The intent to exclude people from choosing their correct gender identity in pursuit of "biological truth" is itself founded on an unscientific assumption, i.e. that there are only two biological sex categories. Beyond the issues with the assumptive logic, this change is a waste of time and a waste of money. What clarity or process improvements would come from reissuing varying forms of ID that have, up until this EO, been readily accepted and posed no barriers to successful identification of persons? Right answer only: zero.
