

Author Full Name : Rachel WilsonReceived Date : 03/02/2025 10:28 PMComments Received :

The change to this process seems pointless and doesn't clarify or simplify things at all. If gender identification is not on the passport to clarify the way people look, then what is the point? It seems like it would be better to just no have sex or gender. After all, people include a current photograph. There's simply no need to put a marker at all. And in that way you can avoid pointless culture war points all together