

Author Full Name : AnonymousReceived Date : 03/06/2025 04:43 PMComments Received :

I disagree with the new change requiring only sex assigned at birth. This is more confusing for TSA who will be dealing with people presenting differently, as is their fundamental civil right, so allowing people to self-identify on their passport makes for better security and prevents people from having to represent themselves on a form as someone they're not. This can stop children, like one I am close to, from feeling dysphoria when questioned at passport control.