Denying trans people accurate passports would expose them to violence and discrimination anytime they have to show ID and keep them from traveling safely. It would impact every element of participating in public life – from flying, opening bank accounts, to enrolling in school, and more.

We all deserve the freedom to be ourselves. The guiding principle of the United States of America is that all people are equal without regard to religion, race, ethnicity, or gender. Policies that target people in any of these categories is fundamentally un-American.
