Transgender Americans should have the right to a correct gender marker on their passports. Passports serve for identification purposes, not medical records. Regardless of my sex assigned at birth, it would be much more helpful for identification's sake to list me as a man when that is what I look like. It would be stupid to describe me as female when I'm 6'0", balding, have a beard, had surgeries, etc. It doesn't hurt anybody to allow us to change our gender marker, but tremendously harms those who are prohibited.
