What the heck does it matter to anybody what gender someone lists on their passport? If someone dresses like a man, let them list as a man on their passport. What are we going to do, an x-ray to check their private parts? What if that doesn't answer the question? We don't need longer lines at the entry points because "this person dresses and talks like a guy, but it says here on their passport they are a woman".

Just let people be who they are.

Quit wasting all our time on stupidity!!!
