I believe that the federal government should honor an individual's choice for gender expression on federal documents like the US Passport. Gender is socially constructed and encoded in a person's right to self-expression. By allowing individuals to express their preferred gender, it will most closely align with their daily presentation and photo. Requiring individuals to list their birth sex could endanger people whose presentation does not match their sex. The US Government should be protective of its citizens, not put them in a position of danger or uncertainty.
