

Author Full Name : Sara CarringtonReceived Date : 03/15/2025 03:07 PMComments Received :

I don't think people should be forced to use their sex assigned at birth on their passports. It doesn't do anything to save money or increase efficiency. If anything, it will reduce efficiency by creating confusion when people whose appearance doesn't align with the sex on their passport go through places like TSA. It also seems to create a potentially unsafe situation for transgender people when they travel or try to use that form of ID for anything. I don't see the point of using funds to make such a change because I don't see what good or helpful service it does for any of us citizens.