I respectfully submit that it is unfair, inequitable, and unconstitutional to implement a new passport policy that forces transsexual and intersex persons to have to have to identify that they are transsexual or intersex any time they have to show ID. There is no reason to force a person to choose between one of only two options (female OR male) when long-established science has determined that human sexuality exhibits across a broad spectrum. In a particular instance, intersex persons cannot be correctly identified as female or male. U.S. Passport policy should accommodate the spectrum of human sexuality recognized by the best science.
