There are members of society who transition gender to overcome the life-threatening condition of gender dysmorphia. Once that transition is completed, and the individual is restored to health, it is necessary to have their documentation match their physical appearance for their safety. This is especially true when traveling. Changing the current passport application endangers those who have transitioned. Going back to review past passport changes is unconscionable. Current passports were obtained following the law applicable at the time they were received, and a retroactive change is not only a waste of time and money, but also puts travelers in danger. The form should not be changed and no past data should be collected
