

Author Full Name : Lauren BowlingReceived Date : 06/11/2025 09:11 AMComments Received :

As a veterinarian involved in public health work, routinely surveilling for HPAI in livestock and milk, which it has already been detected in, is EXTREMELY important. Influenza viruses are extremely adaptable, and the more species they are exposed to, the more likely it becomes that it evolves to infect humans. To prevent another COVID-19 experience, this surveillance is necessary.