Train at NCI

The National Cancer Institute (NCI) is the federal government's principal agency for cancer research and training.

Interested in joining our mission? Train at NCI provides prospective applicants an overview of a variety of NCI training programs that will appeal to researchers at different stages of their careers.

Why Train at NCI?

NCI conducts research across the cancer care continuum to advance scientific knowledge and help people live longer, healthier lives. At our Bethesda, Shady Grove, and Frederick campuses, you will find leading experts in basic, clinical, translational, or genomic and population-based research. In addition to working side-by-side with world-class scientists, you will find extensive professional career and development opportunities, fellow-led groups that build a sense of community, and access to additional training, courses, and workshops to facilitate your project and career goals.

How can I obtain an internship or fellowship at the NCI?

Contact investigator directly

This is the most common way, but the success rate is variable.

Submit your CV/resume to NIH database or NCI database

Your information becomes available to investigators seeking to fill positions. However, the system is currently unable to match you to an investigator or available position. To increase your chances of success, you should also identify specific investigators that match your research interests and inquire about position availability.

Open Fellowship Postings

NCI Divisions, Offices, Centers often post current vacancy announcements. Opportunities are posted on the CCR, DCEG, DCCPS, and DCP websites.

Apply to a specific program within a specific timeline

You can use the Find a Training Program option to identify the best fit for you. Many of these programs are cohort-based and designed to enhance recruitment and retention within the biomedical workforce. All provide a mentored training experience, often in conjunction with additional career and professional resources.

No matter how you obtain your fellowship, you will find support within the various NCI divisions, offices, and centers to help you achieve your career goals. We hope you consider the NCI as you are planning your training. To learn more about the available resources for trainees, you can visit the CCT website.

If you choose to apply to a program using one of the applications hosted at Train at NCI, please be aware that this information collection has been approved by the Office of Management and Budget.

OMB No. 0925-0761

Expiration Date 07/31/2025

Collection of this information is authorized by The Public Health Service Act, Section 411 (42 USC 285a). Rights of study participants are protected by The Privacy Act of 1974. Participation is voluntary, and there are no penalties for not participating or withdrawing from the study at any time. Refusal to participate will not affect your benefits in any way. The information collected in this study will be kept private to the extent provided by law. Names and other identifiers will not appear in any report of the study. Information provided will be combined for all study participants and reported as summaries. You are being asked to complete this instrument so that we can evaluate the effectiveness of it.

Public reporting burden for this collection of information is estimated at 60 minutes per response including the time for reviewing instructions, searching existing data sources, gathering and maintaining the data needed, and completing and reviewing the collection of information. An agency may not conduct or sponsor, and a person is not required to respond to, a collection of information unless it displays a currently valid OMB control number. Send comments regarding this burden estimate or any other aspect of this collection of information, including suggestions for reducing this burden to: NIH, Project Clearance Branch, 6705 Rockledge Drive, MSC 7974, Bethesda, MD 20892-7974, ATTN: PRA (0925-0761). ### Center for Cancer Research

CCR is home to basic, clinical, and translational researchers who innovatively explore rare and neglected areas of cancer and HIV/AIDS research and develop novel therapeutic options for patients.

Division of Cancer Epidemiology and Genetics

DCEG is the world's most comprehensive cancer epidemiology research group. Its renowned epidemiologists, geneticists, and biostatisticians conduct population and multidisciplinary research to discover the genetic and environmental determinants of cancer and new approaches to cancer prevention.

Division of Cancer Control and Population Sciences

DCCPS conducts and supports an integrated program of genetic, epidemiological, behavioral, social, applied, and surveillance cancer research to reduce risk, incidence, and deaths from cancer as well as enhance the quality of life for cancer survivors.

Division of Cancer Prevention

DCP conducts and supports research to find ways to prevent and detect cancer, and to prevent or relieve symptoms from cancer and its treatments.

Center to Reduce Cancer Health Disparities

CRCHD works towards eliminating health disparities, advancing research across basic, clinical, translational, and population-based studies, and enhancing community engagement.

Technology Transfer Center

TTC builds partnerships and fosters collaboration agreements between NIH scientists, universities, non-profits, and industry to commercialize NIH inventions, and supports research and development that benefits public health.

Letter of Assurance

If you are currently enrolled in an accredited doctoral degree program but have not yet fulfilled all degree requirements, you must specify a person (typically your dissertation advisor) who can provide a letter assuring that all degree requirements will be completed before the start of the CPFP in September 2025.

You should contact your dissertation advisor to see if they will write a letter of assurance. Please provide them the advice for referees and advisors so that they can begin writing the letter.

When you submit your application, this individual will be notified (at the designated email and alternate email addresses you provide) regarding how to upload the requested letter.

Abstract

Each year, the American Cancer Society estimates the numbers of new cancer cases and deaths in the United States and compiles the most recent data on population-based cancer occurrence and outcomes using incidence data collected by central cancer registries (through 2021) and mortality data collected by the National Center for Health Statistics (through 2022). In 2025, 2,041,910 new cancer cases and 618,120 cancer deaths are projected to occur in the United States. The cancer
