RAPID RE-HOUSING FOR HOMELESS FAMILIES DEMONSTRATION STUDY

Participation Agreement

The US Department of Housing and Urban Development (or HUD) is studying the Rapid Re-Housing for Homeless Families Demonstration Program – the type of program currently providing you with rental assistance and supportive services. The FY 2008 budget for the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (H.R. 2764) included funding to support this program, and required the Department to evaluate the effectiveness of the rapid re-housing approach in addressing the needs of homeless families. Abt Associates (Abt) and AbtSRBI, research and survey firms, are helping HUD with the study.

We invite you to participate in this study. If you participate, you will help HUD and your community learn more about how well the Rapid Re-Housing approach works so they can make good decisions about how to help homeless families in the future.

Participating in this study is voluntary, which means that you do not have to participate if you do not want to. If you decide to participate, you will be one of around 1,200 families from 23 communities helping HUD learn how well this type of program works. If you decide not to join the study, nothing will change about the assistance you receive from this program.

What do I need to do to participate in this study?

To join the study, you will need to sign this Participation Agreement and provide information about how we can get in touch with you in the future.

What happens once I agree to participate?

If you decide to participate, someone from Abt will contact you to interview you about 12 months after you finish receiving help from the Rapid Re-Housing program. The interview will take around 25 minutes. The interviewer will ask you questions about your housing; barriers you've faced keeping your housing; your income, benefits, and work experience; your health. The interviewer will also ask about people who are part of your family, including questions about your children, their school attendance, and foster care involvement. When you are contacted for the follow-up survey, you can choose not to participate in the survey if you have changed your mind. And even if you participate in the survey, you can choose not to answer any question. All information you provide will be kept confidential to the extent allowed by law. You will be given $25 as a way of thanking you for the time needed to complete the interview.

At the end of this form, we will be asking you to write down your contact information, information for your landlord, and contact information about others who are likely to know how to reach you in the future. Agreeing to participate in the study means that you give us permission to contact you for this interview and, if needed, to contact the other people you tell us about in case you have moved and we need help finding you for the follow-up interview.

Participation Agreement

Agreeing to participate also means that you give the program staff and researchers permission to use information that was collected about you by this program or other homeless programs in this community to understand how the Rapid Re-Housing assistance worked.

Who will see the information I provide?

All information you share with us and all of information we collect from the Rapid Re-Housing program or any other programs about you is confidential. Your information will be protected to the extent allowed under the law as part of the Privacy Act.

- Only the interviewer and a small number of research staff at Abt and SRBI authorized to work on this research study will see your identifying information and the other information about you that we collect.
- A few other authorized researchers will have access to your individual information, but not your name, address, date of birth, or social security number.
- No one at the Rapid Re-Housing program, any other local agency, or HUD will see your interview responses.
- Reports for this study will only discuss summary information about groups of families who have received assistance. No names or other identifiers will ever be used in any research report.

Are there any risks to me if I participate in this study?

The risks to you of participating in this study are minimal. However, if you join, there are some potential risks. Risks could include the possibility that:

- You might be uncomfortable or even upset answering some of the questions on the interviews. If you feel that way, you can choose not to answer any question on any of the surveys. You can also stop the interview at any time.
- There is a remote risk that your information could be obtained by someone other than the authorized researchers doing this study. We have strict procedures in place to protect the information you provide and to help prevent this from happening.
