And the form N-600K, my daughter submit the form for are daughter that born abroad, and been approved base that I had the grandfather need to establish the physical residence in the us. Because my daughter never live her in the us only come to visit.

But now it's a problem with the consulate that there place the child Under the same rule that apply 214(b) that even showing the bring in letter from the USCIS G-56 interview , that person got to proof to the consul that no intention to abandoned their residence abroad.

They should establish a special entry document just for this only purpose, because the embassy do not understand the process and the N-600K, so someone need to address this problem between too government agency.

Thank you very much in advance in matter
