General Comment

a demo of safety and effectiveness should always be presented with any application. it is very clear that fda is doing a substandard job in protecting america. so many people in america get sick from the lack of enforcement and attention to detail that should be given to any product that applies to sell or be used in america. we used to have a higher standards. now crap is approved by this agency. this agency is substandard. american health is sinking despite taxpayers putting in trillions of dollars into this agency and other medical agencies. what is being approved is harmful and causes death. we need a new system at the fda, but it isn't to make it easier for drug profiteers. it's to make it more rigorous so that we get drugs that truly help and don't kill people.
