REQUIREMENTS FOR QUALIFYING AS A STUDENT FOR CONTINUING BENEFITS AFTER AGE 18

To qualify for a continuing death benefit after reaching the age of 18 years, under the Longshore and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act or one of the Act's extensions, a child, grandchild, brother, or sister must be either (1) incapable of self-support by reason of mental or physical disability, or (2) be a student, regularly pursuing a full-time course of study or training at an institution which is-

- A school, college, or university operated or directly supported by the United States, or by any State or local government or political sub-division thereof.
- 2. A school, college, or university which has been accredited by a State recognized or nationally recognized accrediting agency or body,
- A school, college, or university not so accredited but whose credits are accepted, on transfer, by not less than three institutions which are so accredited, for credit on the same basis as if transferred from an institution so accredited, or
- 4. An additional type of educational or training institution as defined by the Secretary of Labor.

Compensation may be paid so long as a dependent continues to pursue a full-time course of study at a recognized institution. In no event may compensation be paid beyond the end of the semester or enrollment period after the dependent reaches the age of 23 or has completed four years of education. A child shall not be deemed to have ceased to be a student during any period between school years if the period does not exceed five months and if he or she shows to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that he has a bona fide intention of continuing to pursue a full-time course of education or training during the semester or other enrollment period immediately following the period or during periods of reasonable duration during which, in the judgment of the Secretary, the dependent is prevented by factors beyond his or her control.

A child or dependent shall not be deemed to be a student under this Act during a period of service in the Armed Forces of the United States.
