Gary,

From what I understand, the new forms are going to be legal size instead of letter size. This would be an issue for me because I laminate all of my forms and put them in a three ring binder. A legal sized form would not fit in my binder unless I fold it, which would not be practical for something that is laminated. I suppose I could get some sort of legal sized binder, but that would be awkwardly large to carry around.

Thanks for considering my feedback.
