

The modeling & forecasting community of Ohio DOT are in support of NHTS. The data provided are needed to support travel model development. Travel models are used to support a multitude of ongoing transportation planning efforts including but not limited to project selection and prioritization, air quality conformity, congestion management, Safety, transit planning, etc.