Not a bad Idea, could of come up with this a few years ago instead of waiting until the last minute, but alas we either record ourselves or let somebody or device do it instead. Its a recording and it is valuable to the public at large, can we do better is the question? Yes, we can demand it of everyone, all work must be recorded for payments, for validation of progress in order for it to be an act of labor. Doctors, Lawyers, and yeah yellow dog politicians, need to submit to it, let the computers reign in glory over us all! We submit to the authority of logic, and error free living, no mistakes can be made, anymore, a computer does it better than all of us.

Well of course this is a bad idea, mostly due its implementation as a cure all for misguided a legislation which searches for symptoms instead of cause and effect cure. If cause was the reason then according to statistical data only car driving doctors, lawyers, and politicians would need these devices(most accidents are caused by non commercial vehicles), but they are the people making the less liable parties pay for their umbrage against common law and common sense which form our system of justice over two centuries hence.
